The Bursting of the Bud. Spring is coming—Spring is coming !
With her sunshine and her flower !

Heaven is ringing with the singing
Of the birds in brake and bower.
Buds are filling, leaves are swelling, Flowers on field, and bloom on tree, O'er the earth, and air and ocean, Nature holds her jubilee. Soft then stealing, comes a feeling O'er my bosom tenderly 1 11 st. 1619 st Sweet I ponder as I wander, For my musings are of thee.

Spring is coming -Spring is coming ! With her mornings fresh and light; With her moon of chequered glory, Sky of blue, and clouds of white. Calm, gray nightfall, when the night falls From the star bespangled sky, While the splendor, pale and tender,

Of the young moon gleams on high. Still at morn, at moon and even, Spring is full of joy for me, Sweet I ponder as I wander, And my musings are of thee. Still on thee my thoughts are dwelling.

Whatsoever thy name may be: Beautiful, beyond words telling, Is thy presence unto me. Morning's breakings find thee waking, Wandering in the breezes' flight; Noontide's glory mantles o'er thee In a shower of sunny light; Daylight, dying, leaves thee lying In the silvery twilight ray; Stars look brightly on thee nightly Till the morning of the day.

Every where and every minute Feel I near thee lovely one : In the lark and in the linnet I can hear thy joyous tone. Bud and bloom mark the coming Of thy feet o'er vale and hill; And thy presence, with life's essence, Makes the forest's heat to fill. Low before thee, I adore thee, Love Creative, thee I sing; Now I meet thee, and I greet thee By the holy name of Spring.

It was, of course, improper for him to remain there; and the people with whom he lived, who were distant relatives of his, refused to permit him to stay was taken to the pest house.

It so happened that he was engaged to be married to a most estimable and amiable young lady. No sooner did she hear of his condition than she determined at once that she would nurse him. She underwent vacination, and then went where they had taken her betrothed, to the pest house. Here she found him, alone, sick, wretched, deserted by all the world. And here she remained like a ministering angel, waiting beside his bed of pain, soothing his distresses and attending to his wants -He died. But how consoling must have been his last moments. Though all the world had forsaken him, she, whom he loved better than all the world, remained faithful to the last. Her hand it was that smoothed his pillow; her eyes still upon him with mournful but unabated affection; into her ear he poured his last words of love, of sorrow, and hopes that in this world might never be fulfilled.

When Missouri was preparit g for admission into the Union there was an internal str fe on the same subject, but bore no compari-son to that which now exists in the western part of Missouri and in Kansas. The contest was between men who had settled in the then territory, with the intention of making their permanent residence, but who hon-estly differed as to the policy of excluding slavery from the new State. A different state of things now presents itself in refer-ence to Kansas. If the question of slavery or no slavery in Kansas were to be decided by those who have migrated to the territory in the ordinary course of events, and by emigrants from those portions of the Union which have heretofore contributed to populate this belt of country, it is not at all prohable that this election would have elicited any unusual interest or excitement. This is the design of these fanatics; and that is properly considered, it is not at all surprising that the whole western part of Missouri and Kansas is boiling over with rage and ex-
